

Måsøval AS: Change in board of directors

25.11.2021 22:38:30 CET | Måsøval AS | Inside information

John Binde resigns as board member of the Company

John Binde has notified Måsøval AS that he wishes to resign as from his position as board member of the Company.

John Binde will start at the investment bank Astrup Fearnley to head up their seafood section.

This position is not deemed to be compatible with his position as board member and is the cause of this decision.

«I would like to express my thanks for four exciting years in the board of Måsøval AS during a period of impressive development and growth, which I believe will continue in the future", John Binde states.

«I wish to thank John for his contributions in the board. His broad experience and insight in salmon farming has been of great use for the Company" says Lars Måsøval, chairperson of Måsøval.
